[No. 5172.]

For the prevention and cure of
BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS
is recommended
Hahn's ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS
THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern
and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.
It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.
They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance; they are celebrated for resolving habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Hamilton's Elixir,
A sovereign remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, asthma, sore throats, catarrhs, and approaching consumptions.
To persons who have children afflicted with the HOOPING COUGH, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative, Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of Nervous Disorders, Violent cramps in Consumptions, the stomach and Lowness of spirits, back Loss of appetite, Indigestion Impurity of blood, Melancholy Hysterical affection, Gout in the stomach Inward weaknesses, Pains in the limbs and debility, Relaxations, etc.

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.
A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, rheumatic gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, etc. etc.

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.
Warranted an infallible remedy at one application, may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Hahn's true & genuine German Corn Plaster.
An infallible remedy for corns, speedily removing them root and branch, without giving any pain.

The Genuine Persian Lotion, So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflammatory redness, scurfs, tetters, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c.

Hahn's genuine Eye Water, A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of nature weakness or of accident.

Tooth Ache Drops.
The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

Lee's Infallible Ague and Fever Drops For the cure of agues, remittent and intermittent fevers.

At the place of sale pamphlets may be had gratis, describing cures performed by the above medicines; the number, importance and respectability of which, fully justify every article of this advertisement.

Fan-Sash Making.
METAL FAN-SASHES, of various descriptions, will be made by the subscriber, at his shop, lower end of Duke-street. The want of a Metal Fan-Sash Manufacture in Alexandria, has hitherto been severely felt by builders and others, who have been compelled to make use of wood, which is neither elegant nor durable. The various forms into which the metal can be shaped have given it a decided superiority, and the difference in the price is very trifling. The subscriber has been at considerable expense in procuring the necessary preparations, and relies on public enterprise for success in the undertaking.
Gentlemen in the country, by sending the dimensions of their sashes, can have them made at the same price as if in town.

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE AND DAILY ADVERTISER.

PUBLISHED BY
SAMUEL SNOWDEN,
ROYAL-STREET.

Daily Gazette 87 - Country Gazette 25.

THURSDAY, MARCH 12, 1816.

SELECTED.

AN INVITATION INTO THE COUNTRY.

The swallows in their torpid state, Compose their useless wing.
And bees in hives as idly wait
The call of early spring.

The keenest frost that binds the stream,
The wildest wind that blows, Are neither felt nor feared by them, Secure of their repose.

But man, all feeling and awake,
The gloomy scene surveys;
With present ills his heart must ache,
And pant for brighter days.

Old Winter, halting o'er the mead, Bids me and Mary mourn;
But lovely Spring peeps o'er his head, And whispers your return.

Then April, with her sister May,
Shall chase him from her bowers,
And weave fresh garlands every day, To crown the smiling hours.

And if a tear that speaks regret Of happier times appear, A glimpse of joy that we have met, Shall grieve and dry the tear.

Interesting Narrative.

From the N. York Daily Advertiser.
We published a short time since an extract from an entertaining volume, which has been published in England, in the course of the past year, entitled—"Narrative of a Voyage in His Majesty's late ship, Alceste, to the Yellow Sea, along the coast of Corea, and through its hitherto numerous undiscovered islands, to the Island of Lewchew, with an account of her shipwreck in the straits of Gaspé."—By John McLeod, surgeon of the Alceste.

The following account of that Island, extracted from the same work, we have no doubt will prove amusing to our readers.
"The Island of Lewchew is about sixty miles long, and twenty broad—I is the principal island of a group of thirty six, subject to the same monarch, and the seat of government. The natives trace their history back to a period long anterior to the Christian era; but their first communication with the rest of the world, was about the year 605, when they were invaded by China, who found them at that time—a time when Europe were immersed in barbarism—the same kind of people they are at the present day, with the exception of a few Chinese innovations—or, at least they appear to have altered but in a very slight degree."

The Island of Lewchew itself is situated in the happiest climate of the globe. Refreshed by the sea breeze, which, from its geographical position blow over it at every period of the year, it is free from the extremes of heat and cold, which oppress many other countries—while from the general configuration of the land, being more adapted to the production of rivers and streams than of bays and marshes, one great source of disease in the warmer latitudes, has no existence; and the people seemed to enjoy robust health—for we observed no diseased object, nor beggars of any description.

The verdant laws of Titian and Juno's beauties, so well described in Anson's voyage, are here displayed in higher perfection, and on a much more magnificent scale; for cultivation is added to the most enchanting beauties of nature. From a commanding height above the ships, the view is in all directions, picturesque and delightful. On one hand are seen the distant Islands, rising from a wide expanse of ocean, whilst the clearness of the water enables the eye to trace all the coral reefs, which protect the anchorage below. To the south is the city of Napasoo, the vessels at anchor in the harbor, with their streamers flying—and in the intermediate space appear numerous hamlets scattered about on the banks of the rivers, which meander in the valley beneath; the eye being in every direction charmed by the varied hues of the luxuriant foliage around their habitations. Turning to the east, the houses of Kink-ching, the capital city, built in their particular style, are observed here and there, opening from among the lofty trees which surround and shade them, rising one above another in gentle ascent to the summit of a hill, which is crowned by the king's palace; the intervening grounds between Napasoo and Kink-ching, a distance of some miles, being unobscured by a continuation of villas and country houses. To the north as far as the eye can reach the higher land is covered with extensive forests.

At a short distance from this eminence the traveller is met by a foot path to what seems only a little wood—but on entering which under an archway formed by intertwining branches of the opposite trees, he passes along a serpentine labyrinth, every here and there intersected by others. Not far from each other on either side of these walks, small wicker-doors are observed, on opening any of which he is surprised by the appearance of a court-yard and house, with the children and all the usual cottage train, generally gamboling about, so that whilst a man fancies himself in some lonely and sequestered retreat, he is, in fact, in the middle of a populous but invisible village.

Nature has been bountiful in all her gifts to Lewchew; for such is the fertility of its soil and climate, that productions of the vegetable kingdom, very distinct in their nature and generally found in regions far distant from each other, grow here side by side. It is not merely as might be expected, the country of the orange and the lime, but the bay-tree of India and the Norwegian fir, the tea plant and sugar cane, all flourish together. In addition to many good qualities, not often found combined, this Island also can boast of its rivers and secure harbors—and last, though not least, a worthy, a friendly, and a happy race of people.

They all seemed to be gifted with a sort of politeness which had the fairest claim to be termed natural: for there was nothing constrained, nothing stiff or studied in it.

Captain Maxwell having one day invited a party to dine with him, the health of the king of Lewchew was drank in a bumper—one of them immediately addressing himself with warmth and feeling, to the interpreter, desired him to state how much they felt gratified by such a compliment; that they would take care to tell it to every body when they went on shore—and proposed at the same time a bumper to the King of the English.

On our arrival at Lewchew, our cases of sickness, though not numerous, were severe, and to the kindness of the natives may, in a great measure, be attributed their recovery. They were not only comfortably lodged, but the higher class of people daily attended, inquiring into their wants, giving additional coonags or eggs, and other delicacies, to those whose cases more particularly required them, and paying a cheerful attention to the whole; for theirs was a substantial, not a cold or ostentatious charity.

A young man whose case had long been hopeless, died here. On that night a coffin was made by our own carpenters whilst the natives dug a grave in the English manner, in a small burial ground under some trees near the landing place.

Next morning we were astonished to find a number of the principal inhabitants clad in deep mourning (white robes with black or blue sashes) waiting to attend the funeral. The captain came on shore with the division of the ship's company to which the man belonged, and proceeded to the garden where the body lay. His messmates bore the coffin, covered with the colors—the seamen ranged themselves two and two in the rear of it; next were the midshipmen; then the superior officers, and last of all the captain, as is usual in military ceremonies of this kind. The natives, who had been waiting attentively this arrangement, and observing the order of precedence to be inverted, without the least hint being given, but with that unassuming modesty and delicacy, which characterize them, when the procession began to move, placed themselves in front of the coffin—and in this order marched slowly to the grave. The utmost decency and silence prevailed whilst the funeral service was performed by the chaplain although there was a considerable concourse of people; and afterwards they marched back, but in different order to the garden. Here they took the directions for the shape of a stone to be placed at the head of a tomb, which, as a mark of respect, they had already begun to erect over the grave. This was soon finished; and the shape of English letters being drawn with Indian ink, they, notwithstanding the simplicity of their tools, cut out, with much neatness, the following epitaph, which when explained to them seemed to be highly gratifying:—"Here lies buried, aged twenty-one years, William Hares, seaman, of His Britannic Majesty's ship Alceste, died Oct. 15, 1816—This monument was erected by the King and inhabitants of this hospitable island."

The day after the interment, they went to the tomb, with their priests, and performed the funeral service according to the rites of their own religion. There is not an act of those excellent and interesting people which the mind has not pleasure in contemplating and crediting. Not satisfied with having smoothed the path of death, they carried their kind regards even beyond the grave?

Worcester, (Mass.) March 4.

On Monday we experienced one of the greatest freshets within our recollection. The rain commenced on Sunday and continued, though with frequent intermissions, through the next day. When it commenced the earth was covered with a heavy body of ice and snow, which had accumulated during a long continued period of severe weather, which almost entirely disappeared in a few hours. The water in our ponds and rivers rose to a height which we believe has been unknown before, and much damage has been done to mills and bridges which have been exposed to the violence of the torrents, and to the operations of the ice which has "broke from its moorings."

ALEXANDRIA: THURSDAY, MARCH 12, 1816.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT AT WASHINGTON.

Wednesday, March 11, 1816.

The resolution on the subject of Internal Improvements, was yesterday brought again under the consideration of the house in committee of the whole, and was under discussion the greater part of the day. The only persons who spoke at any considerable length upon it, were Mr. Johnson of Vir. against the measure, and Mr. Lowndes in answer to him. The arguments hitherto being chiefly founded on constitutional objections, which are not topics of a very interesting sort to readers in general, I had resolved to confine my letters to you to the results of the questions as they arose, and to be extremely sparing of the speeches—but the uncommon ability displayed by Mr. Lowndes, in one he made in answer to the adversaries of the bill, induces me to deviate from the rule I have prescribed to myself in my correspondence, by giving you a compressed sketch of it—or at least of some of the leading arguments it contained.

He expressed his surprise that such an alarm should have seized the gentlemen on the other side, as if consolidation and the worst of tyranny was at their very doors, at the congress taking upon them to exercise, on the part of the U. States, a right which not only the U. States, but every citizen in it, possessed of laying out his own money, in his own country, in buying land and holding it for his own proper and necessary occasions. He showed in a variety of strong lights the absurdity of saying that congress had no right to appropriate money for making roads and canals; because such an application of the public funds was not particularly specified in the powers enumerated in the constitution; a principle which, if it could be maintained, would put an end to a multitude of just rights of appropriation, which had never been called in question—for instance, who did not know that in every act of incorporation, the funds of the body were appropriated to objects, many of which were not only not mentioned in the act, but never were even thought of at the time of making it; yet no one ever doubted the right to apply them. He insisted that the framers of the constitution never could have intended so to restrict the right of appropriation as had been asserted. They had given the power to raise armies, to raise a navy, to raise money, and of course had given the power to do every thing that was incidentally necessary to the exercise of those powers. In fair construction, it was demonstrable that where the power of raising an instrument was granted, the power to make use of that instrument was granted along with it; it would else be a nullity—In granting the power to raise armies or navy, therefore, the framers of the constitution, ex necessitate granted the power to make use of those armies and navy at the discretion of congress, and to do every thing that should be found expedient for the maintenance as well as the employment of those instruments—"You can employ armies," said he, "in labour as well as in war—You can employ the navy, if you see fit, in making discoveries—yet not one of these can be found among the enumerated powers in the constitution—How then can gentlemen say that the rights of congress are necessarily confined to the enumerated powers?"

Mr. Lowndes then adverted to a position of Mr. Barbour's that congress had no right to purchase land except for forts, for dock yards or for arsenals, called to the recollection of the house the truth that great purchases of land had been made by the general government, without any view or pretence to use it for a fort, a dock yard, or an arsenal—it had purchased that part of the Mississippi country that was now the Alabama territory, from the state of Georgia; and it had never been suggested that it had no right to buy the land of which it had not acquired the jurisdiction—it had, on the contrary, made great acquisitions of property over which it had no jurisdiction. Mr. Lowndes went farther, and by fair reasoning from the constitution, and the frequent unquestioned practice of the United States government as a comment on it, demonstrated the political right of the U. States government to take property wherever the public interests should require it: and here he paid to Mr. Clay the tribute of concurrence in what that gentleman had said on Saturday, declaring that the ground that gentlemen had taken, was so secure that he would not pretend to add any thing to fortify it.

It was impossible, Mr. L. continued, that any man could imagine that all the various, unforeseen incidental necessities of war could be made a matter of constitutional detail, but must await the process of the war itself, and be provided for as they should arise. Yet gentlemen would seem to argue that these preparatory steps for war were actually forbidden, because they were not specified in the enumerated powers of congress, until the war should be brought into the country—that we were not to make roads or canals for the transportation of our munitions of war, or the march of our armies, till we were in the face of the enemy. The power was allowed by those gentlemen to be vested in congress to raise armies; but was that power limited by the constitution to a time of war? No—it was given generally for peace as well as in war; and the supply and transportation of munitions, and all the other necessary ingredients and accessory circumstances of war, must of course follow as of inevitable inference, if not from the letter, certainly from the reasoning and spirit of the constitution. War cannot be made without the munitions; munitions, therefore, are included in the very idea of war, and in the use of armies, and no possible provision can be supposed to exist against them, or against the procuring of them, or the means of transporting them, when the right to make war is granted. As to a proposition which had fallen from Mr. Barbour, that instead of having roads made to supply the armies when ordered to the frontiers, there ought to be depots formed on the frontiers for the purpose, Mr. Lowndes thought it scarcely necessary to do more than state it in order to show its futility. Making depots in such situations, and on such an extended line of defence, would cost infinitely more than making the roads; and after all, be establishing them perhaps only for the use of the enemy. And Mr. L. appealed to the members present, among whom were certainly some who were qualified to decide the fact, whether there were not many positions on the coast where an engineer would say that forts were necessary, and where the first object of that engineer would be to have roads first made to communicate with and to supply them.

Upon the subject of the power of taking possession of property, on which so much had been said, as if its not being specially enumerated among the constitutional powers amounted to an exclusion from it, Mr. Lowndes pointed out in the constitution a provision that private property should not be taken by government without making compensation for it; and this negative, he insisted, was an undeniable proof of the affirmative. The constitution allowed its being taken by saying that it must be paid for.

When a state possessed, from the law of nature and nations, rights prior to the establishment of its government, the constitution, as Mr. L. maintained, was understood to give that government all the means of enforcing them. Some of those rights, he said, could not, from their nature, be enforced by the judiciary—they must, therefore, be enforced by the legislature—by the government itself. Every body allowed that from all parts of the interior of a country there must ever exist a right of way to the ocean, and that right it was competent to congress alone to maintain. Such had been our right of way down the Mississippi to the ocean when Spain possessed the territory through which it passed; would it not be strange if (as the arguments against this measure would faintly infer) we were to lose that right when that territory became American property?

It had been said that it was better to leave those plans of improvement for individuals and not apply the public funds to them. Mr. L. said he would candidly confess that what individuals could do, and were likely to do, would be best done by them. But the cases now contemplated were not objects of temporary utility to interest themselves in their execution, and some objects of internal improvements furnished exceptions to that rule. In making roads for instance, amongst whom were the stockholder—the landholder—and the traveller who used them—But on the proposed system the country would draw a much greater profit than all of them.

Mr. Lowndes moved to amend the resolution by substituting instead of it, a string of others, declaratory of the right of congress to make roads, &c.; which were adopted by a majority of 20—or 78 to 58.

Mr. Hugh Nelson said that on passing the resolutions laying taxes for the late war, there were 15 of them, all of which were separately voted—but the vote was then taken on them conjointly in order to give the whole body of them the sanction of the house. He requested to have the sense of the house taken on the present resolutions altogether, declaring at the same time that he would think a war with all the nations of Europe less mischievous than this usurpation of state rights. He was deeply affected—saying that the doctrines maintained with such wonderful power and ingenuity by Mr. L. paralyzed his whole mind—if they passed, the states he said ought to go into sackcloth and ashes. Though I differed altogether from Mr. Nelson, there was on this occasion, as these generally is when he is called upon on important subjects, an earnestness which warranted his zeal and sincerity so strongly that I was half warped against the evidence of my judgment. The committee rose and obtained leave to sit again—so that it will be on again this morning.

At an election held on Monday last for Directors of the Mechanics' Bank of Alexandria, the following gentlemen were chosen:

Isaac Entwistle
John Longden
Wm. Veitch
James McGoire
N. R. unsavell
E. P. Taylor

We heartily congratulate our readers that the bill for making provisions for the surviving indigent soldiers of the revolution has passed both houses of congress finally; and that, as though the president had not himself suggested the act, there can be no doubt of its receiving his signature, the bill may be considered as a law of the land.

We learn by a letter from Port Deposit, in Cecil county, that the flood in the Susquehanna last week was the greatest which has been witnessed in that river for many years. On Thursday the elegant bridge at McCall's was entirely swept away, and the water was within ten inches of the bridge at Columbia—much damage has been done along the banks of the river, as parts of several houses and vast quantities of timber were seen floating down the stream.

Extract of a letter from Hartford, Conn. dated March 3, (7 P. M.) 1818.
I have the unpleasant intelligence to communicate to you, of the destruction (by the ice) of nearly one half of the wood work of the Hartford bridge. The piers are solid, and have withstood the attack of the enemy to admiration, although somewhat battered on the upper side. To give particulars would answer no purpose at present—to-morrow morning may unfold a more extended field of destruction, although I hope and expect the great danger is over, as the ice which now runs appears to have come from above the falls. Report says Enfield bridge has fallen. Our town bridge went off last night. The bridge market barely escaped.

Middletown, March 5.

BREAKING UP OF THE CONNECTICUT.
The storm that commenced last Saturday night has completely broke up the ice in our river, and we fear has done incalculable mischief. We have received no mails from Hartford. Yesterday we were informed that one division of the bridge across the Connecticut at Hartford was gone, and the whole of the bridge across the river that runs through the city; but that the market adjoining on the west side remains firm.

This morning the river opposite this city presented a most terrific aspect—the ice three and four feet thick, piled on the wharves in every direction. At about 1 o'clock, just as our paper was going to press, the east end of the large store belonging to Messrs R. & D. Rand & Co. was started from its foundation, carried several feet, and nearly turned over. It is now a complete wreck. Should the water continue to rise there is no telling where the business of destruction will end.

James Kennedy & Son, RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they have just received from LEE'S MEDICINE STORE,
No. 46, Maiden lane, New-York, a fresh supply of the following valuable MEDI-CINES:

Hamilton's Worm-destroying Lozenges.

Which have within sixteen years past cured an immense number of persons of both sexes of every age and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from WORMS, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent & is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or griping cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross ha-mours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Terres or large round worm; the Ascari-des or small tapeworm; the Cucurbi-tine or short flat white worm; and lastly, the Tenia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and fœtid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs and lowness of spirits; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm-destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

The Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

For the prevention and cure of
is recommended
HANN'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS
THIS Medicine has been attended
with a degree of success highly grateful
to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern
and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons
can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than calumnies of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken
once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove
an infallible preventive; and further,
that in the earlier stages of those diseases,
their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases
esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly
mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.
They are excellently adapted to carry
bid secretions—to restore and amend the
and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first
moving habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and
change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

fectly agreeable, and the dose so small
that no difficulty arises in taking it.
